

Bio for Jack and Louise Hawley

For almost a generation Jack and Louise Hawley have been living half of each year at an ashram (spiritual community) in rural southern India, where they pursue their sadhana (inward path), studying, researching and writing about the application of spirituality and human values in modern life. While there, they offer presentations to the throngs of visitors as part of the Ashram lecture program. Jack also lectures and works on special projects in the graduate business program at the Sri Sathya Sai University.

Dr. Jack Hawley is President of John A. Hawley Associates, Consultants in Organization Effectiveness and Spirit. He also founded Team Climate Associates, a Consortium of Consultants in Positive Work Environment.

His books include:

- Reawakening the Spirit in Work: The Power of Dharmic Management—“People in business all over the world are asking questions of deeper meaning, and this international bestseller does a thoughtful job of expressing the moral and spiritual essence of life, management and work-life in ways that will enrich the lives of all who read it.”
- Bhagavad Gita: A Walkthrough for Westerners—“Called India’s greatest contribution to the world, this great spiritual text and epic poem has, for over 5000 years shown countless hundreds of millions in the East how to fill their active lives with serenity and love. Now these ancient secrets have been brought to the West in an award-winning prose version that makes the story of the Gita clear and exciting, and makes its deep truths coherent and easily applied to our busy lives. To read the Gita is to be inspired in the true sense of the term: to be ‘in-spirited,’ to inhale the ancient and ever new breath of spiritual energy.”
- Essential Wisdom of the Bhagavad Gita—“A shorter, more supple entry to the teachings that extracts the pure wisdom and organizes it into helpful categories perfect for reading and study.”
- Roadmaps to Self-Realization—“A unique self-Inquiry (workbook) approach to understanding the Gita in depth and implementing its teachings in life.”

Louise Hawley, BS (Ed), lectures with her husband at the ashram and elsewhere. In 1987, after their children left home, she received an inner message to detach from her numerous worldly pursuits and embark on her real mission in life. She immediately closed down her events-producing business and became a saddhu (spiritual seeker) with Jack in India. Their five grown offspring reside with their families from Florida to Hawaii.

When not in India, the Hawleys frequently give talks and workshops on the Bhagavad Gita and Dharmic Management to organizations around the world. They also offer optional seminars at management conferences entitled “Glimpses of God.”
